With almost two decades of online and offline design experience, I've just about done it all.

Major corporate rebranding? Done it. Books and magazines? Yep. Mobile applications? Uh-huh. Games? Yes, even that. What about complex UX solutions for enterprise-level software? Oh, yeah.

In my history, I've had to think like an artist, a developer, a marketing director and an end user. I believe that all good design is user experience design because it puts the user first, and I strive to put that into everything I do. I also love working with other people who are skilled in their field to crank out incredible products that get the job done.

Simply put: I make beautiful stuff that works.
